Triage Serves-up a Winner

'Tennis in the Community' sponsorship programme gets grass roots tennis into play

22nd May 2008 — Triage Services, the UK's leading independent provider of repair solutions to the IT industry, will once again sponsor a local team of amateur tennis players in their bid to become champions.

Tony Cook, Sarah Ward and Richard Kiely will sport the Triage Services logo as they do battle in the Datchworth Summer League Championships. The Triage tennis team won the championship in 2006, and look set to do well once again in this year's play offs.

"Triage Services is committed to supporting local community programmes – and this project helps ensure grass roots tennis continues to flourish," explains Colin Mackrill, Finance Director at Triage Services. "The championships encourage people of all ages to participate and get fit – and for some youngsters, watching the matches will fire their enthusiasm to get involved in the sport."
